

Bluegill are a type of sunfish, and are the most common fish found in Oklahoma. They are known for their willingness to bite all kinds of bait like worms, minnows, and small lures.