Important to Remember:

You will need to have the facility constructed for the type of animals you want to rehabilitate and then call the game warden in your county to inspect your facility. It is your responsibility to become educated in the care of the animals you want to rehabilitate and to finance the care of the animals.

If you want to rehabilitate any birds other than common pigeons, house sparrows, starlings and upland game birds: such as, quail and pheasants, you will also need to have a Federal Special Purpose Rehabilitation Permit or Federal Rehabilitator Migratory Bird and Raptor Permit. You apply for that license with the US Fish and Wildlife Services, Migratory Bird Office, P.O. Box 709, Albuquerque, NM 87103-0709, phone 505-248-7882.

If you have moved from the original inspected facility site, you do need the game warden to inspect your new location.
